Consul-General's Commendations for FY 2020

Dr. Emiko Ohnuki-Tierney, William F. Vilas Professor, University of Wisconsin-Madison
Dr. Naomi McGloin, Professor-Emeritus, University of Wisconsin-Madison

[August 31, 2020] Today, the Consulate-General of Japan in Chicago announced that the following two individuals have received the Consul-General's Commendation from Consul-General OKADA Kenichi.

Dr. Emiko Ohnuki-Tierney, William F. Vilas Professor, Department of Anthropology, University of Wisconsin-Madison.

In addition to her many years of contributions to the study of anthropology, she is being recognized for her countless contributions to the promotion of the understanding of Japan through her numerous works. "William F. Vilas Professor" is a distinguished title, awarded to selected faculty with proven research abilities who have contributed significantly to the research mission of the university.

Dr. Naomi McGloin, Professor-Emeritus, Asian Languages and Cultures Department, University of Wisconsin-Madison.

Dr. McGloin is recognized for her long-standing contribution to Japanese language education and research as well as the contribution to the spread of Japanese language through activities at the American Association of Teachers of Japanese and her development of various teaching materials.
