5.) What is the application timeline?

Consulate recommendations (in coordination with the Embassy of Japan in Washington, DC) will be announced later. Secondary screening will then be conducted by MEXT in November. Final decisions will come by the end of January 2022. Scholarship recipients must then depart for Japan in early April 2022 (specific departure dates are determined by the technical college you will attend).

Upon arrival in Japan, Scholarship recipients will undergo a 1-year preparatory education course before beginning their undergraduate studies at a Japanese university, unless they choose direct placement.

6.) How do I fill out the Academic Background (Section #10) section?

List your entire academic career from kindergarten and/or first grade through your current or most recent academic year. Please include extended breaks (such as summer breaks) in the academic year. See the example chart at the end of this document.

7.) What is the Preparatory Education?

Each grantee will be enrolled at a preparatory school (either Tokyo University of Foreign Studies or Osaka University) designated by MEXT for a one-year intensive course in the Japanese language and other subjects necessary for preparation for proceeding to the university. Grantees will then take entrance exams for their designated university. If the grantee does not pass the entrance exams, or is determined incapable of completing the prescribed course at the preparatory school, the grantee will not be allowed to proceed to university. Please see Guideline #3 for more information.

8.) What is Direct Placement?

Direct Placement is the system whereby the requirement for preparatory education is waived and direct admission to a university is permitted, if you have sufficient knowledge of Japanese language and there is no necessity for preparatory education, or if you wish to enter a university course that has no Japanese language requirement. Please see Guideline #4 for more information.

9.) Can I choose what university I can attend?

Applicants who apply via Direct Placement will need to submit the Placement Preference Form, in which they name up to 3 Japanese universities and academic departments (aka faculty) you wish to join. However, final selection decision will be made by MEXT.

Applicants who do not apply via Direct Placement do not need to choose which university and academic department (aka faculty) they wish to join at the time of application. However, the Consulate-General of Japan in Chicago recommends that you research your options. Upon completion of the preparatory education (see Question #7), a Scholarship grantee will take the entrance examination of the university designated by MEXT in consultation with the university and the preparatory school.
